Braves maintain Cinderella status by trouncing Grossmont

by Greg Eichelberger

Head football coach Dave Gross knew he had something special when he took over the El Cajon Valley Braves four years ago. But, even last year's playoff appearance gave no indication of just how unbelievable his team would become.

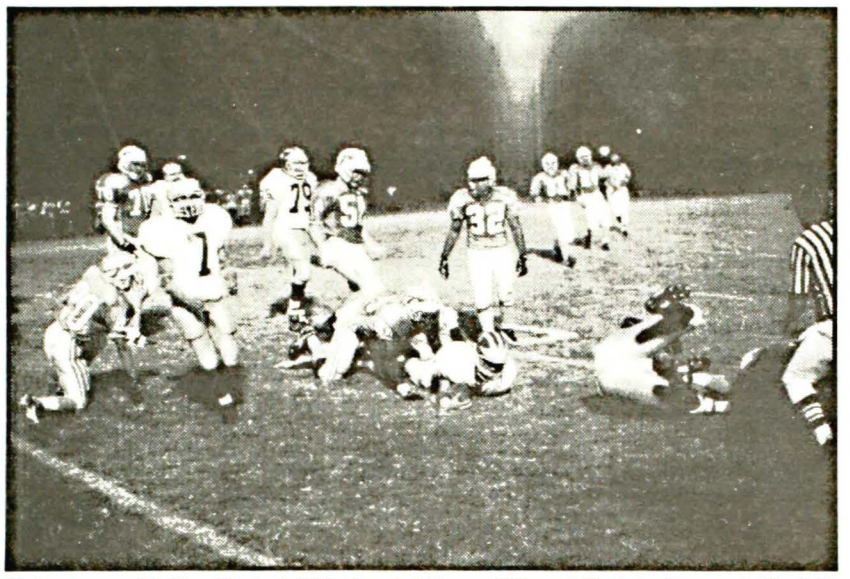
Long the doormat (with Santana) of the Grossmont League, ECVHS endured years of sub-par, or lower, seasons and public ridicule. But, now all of that has changed.

Friday's convincing 49-14 trashing of the 2-4 Grossmont Foothillers made it six victories in a row to start the Braves' 1997 campaign. Gerald Ford was President of the United States the last time that happened.

Now, they are the Cinderella squad, the darlings of the East County, earning kudos as well as media attention from all over San Diego. Even KGTV-Channel 10 was on hand to cover the game.

But, the high-flying Braves dug themselves into a big hole by fumbling the opening kick-off, and then allowing the Hillers to score on a nine-yard pass from QB Sam Hess to WR Michael Wooten. However, until late in the third quarter, that's the last Grossmont came anywhere near the ECV goal line.

The Braves, on the other hand, peppered the opponent's end zone for five consecutive TDs (a pass to Brandon Ostberg from Nathan O'Connor, three- and one-yard runs by Ariel Trammel, a 49-yard pass from O'Connor to Mohammed Muheize and a 13-yard toss to Dylan Mora from Mike Pluth).



Defensemen Phillip Mitchell (88), Jacob Wilson (51) and Cedeño Brown (32) of El Cajon Valley High School surround a fallen Grossmont ballcarrier in first half action. During the game, the Braves' defense controlled the line of scrimmage for most of the night. Now 6-0, El Cajon Valley seems likely to get a more than a few votes for the county's top 10.

By the end of the first half, the battle was over and ECV was sitting pretty with a 35-7 advantage.

Two more dramatic touchdowns followed in the third frame, as Ostberg grabbed an O'Connor pass and sprinted 80 yards to pay dirt, and then linebacker Josh Williams blocked a Grossmont punt, which Trammel scooped up and rumbled 40 yards for the final tally.

"My job on that play is to go in and contain," said the 5'7" junior, who single-handily outscored Grossmont. "When I saw Josh block it, I remembered all of our practices when we went over, scoop ed and scored. You never think you'll get the chance, but I always visualized a big play like that. I was just in the right place at the right time."

The Hillers added an almost meaningless TD later in that quarter as Jake Robinson plunged in from the two.

"These kids have improved tremendously, game after game," said Gross after the contest.

He added that they showed great heart in coming back to score after the fumble and that they really responded; it is what's so amazing about these guys.

He also praised the fact that his charges were not looking ahead to the big game this Friday against West Hills (5-1), instead focusing completely on the task at hand.

Once the job of dusting off the Foothillers was over, though, he said they would not be thinking about anything else, but the Wolf Pack.

Mike Cunningham, defensive line coach was proud of how the Braves contained Grossmont's running attack, stopping them over and over again (including a fourth quarter goalline stand), forcing turnovers and harassing the quarterback.

"We really expected a fight from them because of their size, but our guys were up to the challenge," he said. "We were able to capitalize on their mistakes. That's was the important thing, he added."

Now that the team is 6-0, Cunningham realizes that everyone in the league will now be shooting for them. But, he feels if the Braves play with the same kind of intensity they showed tonight, no one can stop them.

"It's a matter of practice and fundamentals," said senior offensive/defensive lineman Jacob Wilson, noting that now the team has to look ahead and practice real hard for West Hills, which is the game of the year for us, at this point.

Trickles thank Cajon Speedway fans for support for son

by Joe Naiman

In past years, Chuck and Barb Trickle were in the pits at Cajon Speedway as their son, Chris, came down from Las Vegas to compete.

This year Chuck and Barb Trickle's visit for the Oct. 4 race was to thank the track's fans for supporting their critically-injured son.

Chris Trickle's performances during the open competition series and the Southwest Tour showed promise of the young driver moving up, perhaps joining his uncle, Dick Trickle, in NASCAR Winston Cup competition, the highest level of stock car racing.

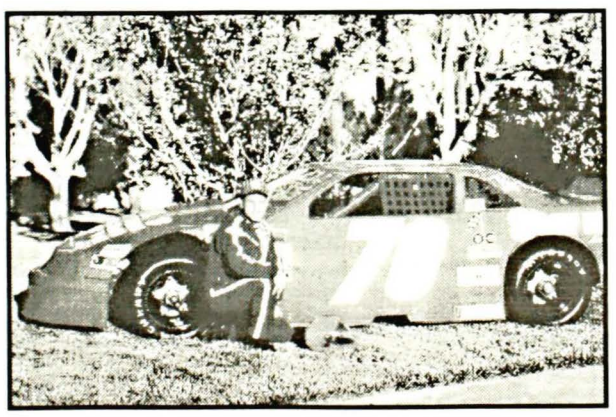
He had a victory in the 1993 open competition race and a 1995 second-place finish after a 40th-lap crash had sent him to the back of the pack.

But on Feb. 9, Trickle was driving home in Las Vegas and was shot in the head during a drive-by shooting.

He was transported to Daniel Freeman Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles so that he could be in a hospital with more aggressive head injury treatment.

He underwent several surgeries to remove the bullet from his brain and to implant shunts to drain spinal fluid from his brain.

Trickle had been in a coma, but despite estimates of less than a 10 percent chance of recovery, he has started to lift his index finger to answer yes to some questions and is eating and drinking. On Sept. 18, he actually scratched his left arm with his right hand.



Fans and friends at Cajon Speedway were thanked by the Trickle family at the speedway on Oct. 4 for their generosity and support for driver Chris Trickle. He was seriously injured in a drive-by shooting in February in Las Vegas where he resided. He is apparently starting to recover from the gunshot, which left him in a coma after surgery.

In addition to cards and prayers, Cajon Speedway fans have chipped in to defray the extensive rehabilitation costs which are not covered by Chris' medical insurance.

Track publicist Bob Gardner has posted requests for small donations over the Internet, and Cajon Speedway fans donated $5,175 at the track during the final three weeks.

Chris has some member of this family or his girlfriend, Jennifer, at the hospital at all times.

The family wanted to tell everybody how much they appreciate their help.

"I'd like to go up there and shake every one of their hands. We need to get more people like El Cajon race fans and officials and PR people and people who care."

Barb Trickle said she didn't realize how many lives Chris had touched until the family received measures of support from fans.

"We know how much we love Chris, but we didn't realize how much everybody else loved him," she said.

The Trickles also have a daughter who lives in Seattle and a foster daughter who was married the week before the visit to the track.

They wanted to pay their respects to the fans at the track where their son had competed. It brought back memories of those happier times and reinforced their loss.

Chuck Trickle said, "I just want him back. He was our life; we were three, Barb and I and Chris. There's a missing part."

The younger Trickle started racing motorcycles when he was eight. When he was 18, his father bought him a racecar. Chris turned 25 on May 30.

"You've got to really take every day and make it the best, because someone could take it away from you really quickly and you can't get it back," his mother said.

Becky McBride of Cajon Speedway said that Barb Trickle seemed happy at her first race since the shooting. "She really enjoyed it, so that was good."

McBride also felt that thanks were necessary to the Brucker family, which owns and operates Cajon Speedway, for allowing the fundraising activity for Trickle to take place at the track.

After watching the race, the Trickles, who have been married for 34 years, returned to the hospital.

"Just came here to tell everybody how much we appreciate what they've done, and one day Chris will come here and tell everybody," added his mother.

Riverwalk Golf Club rises from ashes of Stardust's courses

by Norrie West

San Diego County's 62nd golf course – Riverwalk Golf Club in Mission Valley – will be one of its best, without any question.

The 27-hole Ted Robinson-designed layout is scheduled for its grand opening Dec. 27.

Although it has Robinson's trademarks, it quite likely will prove the most playable course he has ever designed. Perhaps, some of this due to Ted Junior, who is co-designer.

Of course, it is nothing like the now-deceased Stardust Country Club, another 27-hole venue that covered the same ground for 50 years, 1944 - 94.

For one thing, the trolley goes right through the layout, heading toward QualComm Stadium. You get from part of the course to another through tunnels under the raised trolley line.

What is quite distinctive is the smallness of some greens, especially the shorter, easiest-to-par holes. Modest green-side sand bunkers won't be difficult to negotiate – not just in size, but relatively flat.

There are just two bridges crossing the San Diego River that still winds through the place, one 160 feet long, the other 100 feet. Made of metal, they were shipped here from Seattle.

Superintendent Dow Daw, who is enamored with Riverwalk, said: "You won't find many courses more playable than these three nine-hole layouts. The Teds have done a remarkable job."

The clubhouse is set pretty-much in the north/middle of the expansive 27-hole lay- out, with access from the east, via Fashion Valley Road.

In the same area is the double-ended driving range that can be utilized if you are intending to play Riverwalk or shop across the road at Fashion Valley.

One reason the course is opening soon is that the final nine holes were sodded, not seeded.

The fairways of those nine holes were covered at a fantastic rate in one day, averaging 70,000 square feet. That remarkable feat was accomplished by machine-laying of rolls of sod, 70-feet long and three-feet wide.

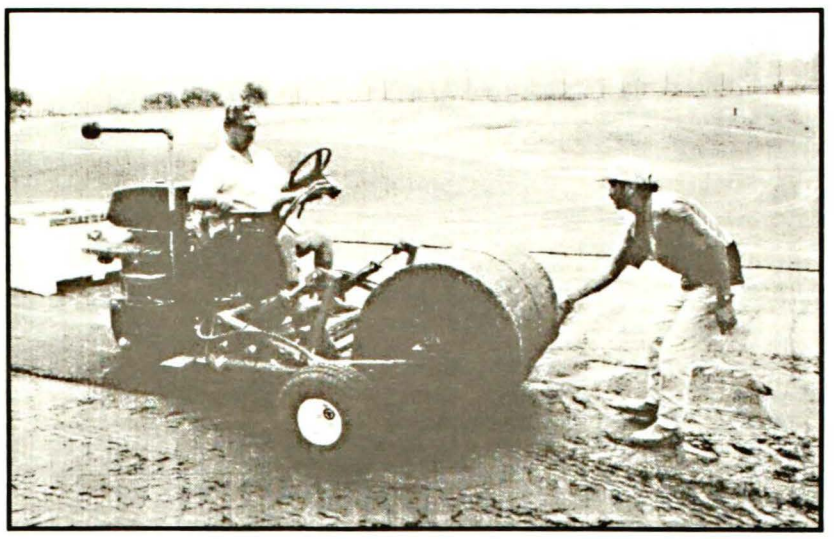
Most modern courses are long and difficult, with four or five tees, but Riverwalk will have just three, the shortest (front tees) totaling just under 2,546 on the Friars nine, 2,645 on Presidio and 2,854 yards on Mission.

Even the tiger tees measure only 3,147 (Friars), 3,203 (Presidio) and 3,386 yards (Mission).

But, most golfers will play middle tees, ranging from 5,900 to 6,200 yards (18 holes), depending upon which two-course combo they choose.

The Robinsons and the owners, Paseo del Rio, decided to create courses for the mid- and high-handicap golfers, something that not too many course architects have done in recent years.

Managing the overall operation is American Golf Corporation, which already runs seven courses here on leases, and Escondido Country Club, which it owns.



Sodding last of the nine-hole courses at the new Riverview Golf Club in Mission Valley was completed in a single day, enabling the new facility to meet a Dec. 27 opening date. The machine is putting down a roll that is 70-feet long, three-feet wide.

Sports Beat
with Greg Eichelberger

Hello sports nuts. Seems this peerless prognosticator has predicted correctly again – at least concerning the 1997 World Series. Remember, last week when I said, "A Marlins-Indians series? Who knows??" I did, thank you very much. Thus, I can relax and watch it because, for the first time in years, I really don't care which team wins. Cleveland has won only two titles (1920 and 1948), while Miami has never won, so either one is fine by me. I would have, however, a great chance to interview Brian Giles and Brian Graham, two El Cajon products, if the Tribe emerged victorious. But it is nice to see Jim Leyland finally knock off Atlanta to get in, too.

As far as our local team is concerned, the only question is just who will the Padres protect in the November Expansion Draft. My picks are Caminiti, Gwynn, Finley, Ashby, Hamilton, Cunnane, Hernandez, Shipley (I'd choose Sweeney), Joyner, Q. Veras, Rivera, Hoffman and three minor leaguers. Let's see if my forecasting prowess continues.

As I write, the San Diego Gulls are opening the 1997-98 season in Boise, Idaho, against the Steelheads (what a ridiculous monicker!). Cari Slater, of El Cajon, the teams' special event coordinator, has promised a slew of great community affairs coming up this year, not the least of which is the home opener on Oct. 24, and the firemen's game to benefit the Burn Institute the next day. Call the Gulls at 225-9813 to find out more.

A recent visit by the so-called Legion of Doom, a tag team duo that grapples in the World Wrestling Federation (WWF), to Sycamore Canyon School in Santee (and a subsequent autograph session at the Santee Arby's) proves one thing – WWF managers are rude, classless jerks, while the athletes themselves are okay people.

For those who can't get enough water polo (or photos thereof), here's a couple of meaningless scores: Valhalla defeated Granite Hills, 15-8, while Grossmont scored an 11-5 win over El Capitan. No doubt the Vaqueros had their minds on the whole Proposition "C" debacle, instead of the contest at hand.

On Thursday (at noon), the Racers Against Drugs (RAD) will visit Lakeside Middle School as part of the continuing effort to keep local children on the straight and narrow. For details, call 390-2636 .

Congratulations to Norseman linebacker Derek Hultenius, featured in an athlete profile in last week's Union-Tribune. That same issue sported a story on the stunning rise of the El Cajon Valley Braves, now in the Grossmont League's North Conference, and a piece on Dick Langston (Helix's junior varsity coach) being the first East County football skipper to reach the 200-win plateau (he is currently 200-66-3).

Speaking of the gridiron, here are this weekend's scores:

In inaugural league competition, El Cajon Valley (see Page 1 story) climbed to 6-0 with a 49-14 stomping of 2-4 Grossmont, as Ariel Trammel scored three TDs and Brandon Ostberg collected two more. Santana (2-4) upset El Capitan (2-4), 35-22, as RB Aaron Shepard ran for over 200 yards and scored four times. RB Montrell Thomas scored with two minutes left to bring 3-3 Mount Miguel even with Granite Hills (also 3-3); then, place-kicker Dustin Gregory gave the Matadors the 7-6 win by booting in the PAT.

West Hills (5-1) continued as the second-best team in the league by getting by a tough 2-4 Valhalla squad, 36-28, as QB Lon Sheriff tossed three more TD passes. Finally, Monte Vista (1-5) earned its first victory by trouncing 4-2 Helix, 24-3.

Of course, any of these teams performed light years better than our "beloved" Chargers did on national TV at Kansas City last week. Maybe a few more 31-3 drubbings and we'll have thousands of extra people clamoring to attend home games – Not! Where's Bruce Henderson now that we need him?

Last week, Alan Grobmeier, of El Cajon, became the first East County bowler to achieve a perfect 300 game (as sanctioned by the American Bowling Congress) this fall season. The momentous event took place at Valley Bowl on "Mixed Nuts" night, whatever that means.

One thing is for sure, you cannot hope to make it to the big time (and by that I mean this column), if you do not call 390-7103 or E-mail ikeforum@juno.com. And, while I cannot promise that you will rebowl a 300 game, I can assure you (and your organization) will receive a fair and just hearing. Until then, have a great sports week.
